General Information

The Adoption Disclosure Register is a service that allows adult adopted persons and eligible birth relatives to place their name on a Register to obtain and exchange contact information in order to reunite with one another.

In order for an exchange of contact information to occur, both the adopted person and the eligible birth relative must be named on the Register. If you are an adopted person, you may specify the eligible birth relatives with whom you wish to exchange contact information.

In the event that both you and your relative are named on the Register, the contact information you provide in Part B of the application form will be given to your relative. In turn, your relative's contact information will be given to you.

Due to the voluntary nature of the Adoption Disclosure Register, it can take months and may take years for a register match between an adopted person and an eligible birth relative to occur. It is also possible that the person with whom you wish to exchange contact information may not apply to be named on the Adoption Disclosure Register. If the person who you wish to contact is not named on the Adoption Disclosure Register, your name will remain on the Register and you will be notified if and when it is confirmed that your relative is also named on the Register.

If you applied to the Adoption Disclosure Register prior to April 24, 2006, you will continue to be named on the Register. You do not need to re-apply.

If you wish to remove your name from the Adoption Disclosure Register, or update your information on the Register, including the list of eligible birth relatives with whom you wish to exchange contact information, you must use the Application to Update Information or Remove Name from the Adoption Disclosure Register.

Who is eligible to apply?

Adopted persons 18 years of age or older may apply to be named on the Register in order to be matched with an adult birth sibling, a birth parent or a birth grandparent.

The following birth relatives may apply to be named on the Adoption Disclosure Register in order to be matched with an adult adopted person:

- a birth sibling of an adult adopted person where the birth sibling is 18 years of age or older;
- a birth parent;
- a birth grandparent.
